Introductory Message

Hello my name is Bouya Kandako, I love to play basketball and have dreams of playing professionally one day. I enjoy playing video games, I like to read, watch tv shows and movies. My major is Business and administrative because I want to learn how to make money on my own and maybe build a future business. I have taken English language classes in highschool even being placed in AP english. I have always been good at ELA but with Ap I struggled due to having to write an essay almost everyday in class which was very hard to do for the first month but I got used to it and now I kind of enjoy writing. In college I have already written over multiple essays in my freshman year so I'm already expecting some essays to come my way this year. My strength as a writer is being able to identify the question and answer it pretty accurately using evidence and other sources to back up my claims. I still struggle with the format of essays and often procrastinate the assignment and even tend to forget about what I'm writing about.
